Lifestyle Centre Makes Waves with Pool Refurbishment Project

Kingswood Active Lifestyle Centre is set to refurbish both of its swimming pools this December, following the successful renovation of its diving boards earlier this year.

Essential maintenance work to reline the pools will last approximately a month, with the pools closed from 5 December 2019 until 2 January 2020. As part of the project, poolside areas will also be refreshed and redecorated in time for its reopening in the New Year.

The refurbishment project is part of an ongoing commitment from Circadian Trust, the not-for-profit organisation who reinvests profits back into local Active Lifestyle Centres.

In recent years, the organisation has overseen major redevelopment projects in Bradley Stoke and Longwell Green, and an extensive pool refurbishment in Yate last year.

Centre Manager, Martyn Hinam, said: "It's a very exciting time for us at Kingswood and I am delighted that we are reinvesting in our swimming pools to extend their lifespan for years to come. We feel extremely privileged to have such loyal members and learn to swim customers who regularly use our pools to keep fit, have fun and learn new skills."

"We constantly strive to improve the experience of all our customers and are looking forward to reopening our newly improved pool facilities in January."

Kingswood Active Lifestyle Centre is one of five lifestyle centres operated across South Gloucestershire by Circadian Trust. For more information about the Centre, please visit: <https://activecentres.org/centres/kingswood/>.
