January 2020

An evening of celebration for South Gloucestershire's Active Lifestyle Centres

Circadian Trust, the not-for-profit charity operating five Active Lifestyle Centres across South Gloucestershire, will host its annual staff awards ceremony later this month - celebrating a year of triumphs across the leisure and lifestyle organisation.

The ceremony, which will take place on Friday 24th January at Thornbury Active Conference Centre, aims to recognise and reward the hardworking teams and individuals that create memorable experiences for all who visit the Active Lifestyle Centres.

The awards will celebrate achievements from all aspects of the organisation, including customer service, food & beverage, and operations. Awards will also be given to reward innovation, engagement and lifetime achievement within the Trust.

Eddie 'the Eagle' Edwards will be the guest host sharing anecdotes of his experience as an athlete, his inspiring Winter Olympic life story, and the importance of placing sport at the heart of the community.

Ben Beasley, Circadian Trust's Director of Commercial Development, said: "It's been an exceptional year for our Active Lifestyle Centres, and our team is a huge part of this success. Through these awards we are able to celebrate the people who make sure that our Centres are friendly, thriving hubs within the community."

Circadian Trust has partnered with local and national businesses to support the awards including headline sponsors XN Leisure, leading IT solution providers for the Leisure Market, and local business PJW, who provide office and shop fitting services and specialist joinery.

A host of local businesses and national leisure brand partners will also be putting their name to the awards including Technogym, Origin Fitness, Gym Sales, DFC, Alliance Leisure, Prestige Cleaning, Vodat International, Shopworks, Shapemaster, ProInsight, Omega Security Systems, and Bigwave media.
